Evidence Strategy: Evidence Remix

Task: Take the same piece of evidence from "We're Holding Gen Z to a Standard that Doesn't Make Sense" from USA Today and practice incorporating it into writing three different ways to see how it sounds: quoting, paraphrasing, and summarizing.

Evidence	Quote It!	Paraphrase It!	Summarize It!
But more language and more information have not eliminated distress. In 2023, 40% of U.S. high school students reported persistent feelings of sadness or hopelessness.
A student who struggles in algebra may come alive building a robot. Another may find herself editing the school newspaper, tutoring a younger student, playing cello, organizing a food drive, or encountering a teacher who notices something in her she has not yet learned to see in herself. These experiences are not peripheral to education. They are often where motivation begins.

Motivation cannot simply be commanded into existence. It grows when young people experience themselves as capable, connected and needed – when they can imagine a future self worth working toward and believe they have something to contribute.
